MIDD. PLAYS GOOD BALL BUT LOSES TO VERMONT AND TUFTS

Three Pitchers Fail to Hold Vermont in 13-5 Beating

POOR FIELDING GIVES 4-2 GAME TO TUFTS

Hingston Pitches No Hit Game As St. Michael's Loses, 5-1

Erratic fielding at crucial moments and well bunched hits gave Vermont her overwhelming 13 to 5 victory Thursday. Lankes, who began the game for Middlebury was pounded for two triples in the first which checked up as runs. In the third more hits gave Vermont two more runs, and Simmons took the mound as the next inning opened, after Novotny had given Midd two runs by bringing Collins in from first with his home run into deep left center.

On a single, a stolen base, a walk, a fly- out, and another single, Vermont succeeded in taking two more runs, but Simmons tightened up with the fifth round and pitched fine ball for three innings. Meanwhile, in the fifth three runs were brought in for the Blue and White through miscues in the enemy's infield, and prospects brightened with the score standing 6 to 5 for Vermont.

Trouble came in the eighth, however. Errors behind him overcame all Simmons' work; Vermont found his offerings for five hits, and by the time 11 men had been at bat, six runs had been added to the score. Another run in the ninth, when Thompson's double scored with a wild throw and a passed ball, ended the scoring of the day. Hingston, who took Simmons' place in the last inning, finally struck out two men and Conway flied out to W. Hasseltine in right.

Bishop Dallas of N. H. Vesper Speaker Sunday

Rev. John T. Dallas of Concord, N. H., newly appointed bishop of the state of New Hampshire has been engaged to speak at Vespers, Sunday, May 23. In the evening he is to speak at a state convention at Randolph. Bishop Dallas was formerly Rector of Trinity Church, at Hanover, and although he was never officially connected with Dartmouth college he was always very popular with the students. This is the first opportunity that Middlebury has had of hearing Bishop Dallas.

1927 KALEIDOSCOPE WORTHY OF PRAISE

(DANA S. HAWTHORNE '26)

The high standard which the Kaleidoscope has maintained for the past three years has been successfully upheld by the Class of 1927. By necessity, a college annual is a publication in which variations are not easy to introduce. When there is a chance for originality, financial considerations often veto the innovations the editor wishes to incorporate. But Mr. Cutler has succeeded in adding a few new features, and what is more, in improving on many of the regular departments.

Dedicated to Middlebury's mascot, The Black Panther, the East Indian motif is employed throughout the volume both in border design, in divisional pages and in departmental pages. The latter, by the way, are of better quality than any appearing in recent Kaleidoscopes. The photographs of the campus, while fewer in number than last year are well engraved reproductions of familiar scenes taken from a new angle. A pleasing addition to the book, and one which makes it more valuable as a souvenir of college days is the inserted group photo of the student body. Let us hope this feature will be retained in future Kaleidoscopes.

The taking of the fraternity groups out of doors has given a better lighting to the faces and consequently a more satisfactory reproduction.

If one were to say wherein the book is weakest, it would probably be in the Junior Class section. Although the photos of the Juniors are larger than usual, many of them are indistinct and smudgy. A few of the personal write-ups are clever but most of them illustrate the uselessness of trying to say something original about every member of the class.

One could not pass over the book without admiring the cover design. It is a clever and artistic bit of work. The Juniors are indeed fortunate in having among them a man who has published such a successful book.

JUNIOR PLAY WELL GIVEN BEFORE BIG COLLEGE AUDIENCE

Critic Praises Work of Cast and Director of "Honor Bright"

The presentation of Honor Bright added one more to the list of successful Junior plays. The play was admirably cast and directed with great skill, so that all its possibilities were adequately realized. I have seldom seen a play in which individuality on the part of the actors was so well developed without detracting from the presentation as a whole. From his entrance to his last exit, for instance, Mr. Cutler, as Watts, was the lachrymose and fear stricken butler, there was not the slightest failure to stay in character. The same was true of all. The major interest of the plot, of course centered around Honor Bright and Richard Barrington. It is needless to say that the presentation of these characters by Miss Comings and Mr. McCutcheon was of a very high order of amateur acting. Miss Barker gave an excellent interpretation of the character of Mrs. Barrington. I have seldom seen a more worried and anxious mother. The superiority of Mrs. Peggy Carton was superb. She was evidently a natural manager even though she did not have all the facts in hand. She might not know a chorus girl when she saw one, but she knew who were not chorus girls at any rate. We all of us loved the Bishop. He knew his Peggy and accepted her at her own valuation. He was a most astute man. Next comes Tot Marvel. She was a Marvel. The pun is inevitable. From slang to snivels Miss Thompson gave a highly diverting interpretation of the part. And at the end she allowed herself to be led out of a very complicated situation by her old pal Bill Drum, the only one who was on to her curves. Mr. Seymour put into his presentation of the character of Drum all the zest and vigorously disrespectful language one could desire. Nor must I forget the Rev. James Schooley, played by Mr. Babcock with refinement and delicacy.

The servants were about perfect. Miss Spear as Maggie, the cook, treated us to a racy dialect that was extremely amusing and the rest backed her protests with rare unanimity. I do not think that Annie, the maid, really knew what it was all about, if the dead look on her face was any indication. But she could go up stairs in a way to arouse tempestuous mirth. She said little but she acted with wonderful skill. Mr. Jones and Mr. Keene the two policemen were zealous in the pursuit of crime and gave a thoroughly adequate rendering of their parts as did Mr. Finnegan as the chauffeur and Mr. Whitney as the gardener.

There was much excellent work done behind the scenes and in the preparation of the play. The set was one of the most attractive that has been built at the Playhouse. The fittings were in

"Coalition" Ticket Makes Another Clean Sweep

The "coalition" ticket made another clean sweep last night at a meeting of the Undergraduate Association when, through the withdrawal of the names of Wiley, Furbush and Hasseltine the secretary was empowered to cast one ballot for the entire list of nominees of the combination for Athletic Council. The men thus elected were Blanchett '28, Hinman '28, Jones '28, Simmons '28, and Crane '27. Leahy was made chief of police by a large majority and Crane was given the position of head cheer leader for the coming year. At the same meeting the new officers were installed.

ELEANOR MANLEY IS NEW STU. G. PRES.

Lewis, Bradley, Graham and Sedgwick Hold Other Offices

Eleanor Manley '27 of Brattleboro was elected president and Anna G. Lewis '27 of South Orange, N. J., vice president of the Student Government Association at a meeting held yesterday afternoon. Helen Bradley '28 of Lee, Mass., was chosen to be secretary and L. Edna Graham '27 of St. Albans will act as treasurer of the Association for the coming year. Margaret Sedgwick '27 was given the office of fire chief. Miss Manley has been active in Y. W. C. A. work here, and for the past year has acted as secretary of the Student Government Association. She was also associate editor of the 1927 Kaleidoscope. She is a member of Pi Beta Phi.

Miss Lewis is a member of the Spanish Club and the Glee Club. She was recently chosen vice president of the Y. W. C. A. She is affiliated with Sigma Kappa. Miss Bradley is vice president of the sophomore class and a member of the Maqua Club. She is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma. Miss Graham has been prominent in dramatics, giving a very finished performance in "Honor Bright", the junior play. She is an assistant business manager on the staff of the CAMPUS. She is a member of Pi Beta Phi. Miss Sedgwick is vice president of the junior class. She has been active in athletics, being named last year for the All Midd basketball team. She is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma.

Women to Debate On Same Subject as Men

The freshman prize-debating contest of the Women's College will be held in the Mead Memorial Chapel Monday evening, May 24, at eight fifteen. The subject will be "Resolved: that Congress should have the power to regulate the labor of persons to the age of eighteen." This topic is also being used by the Parker prize-debaters Friday evening, and it will be interesting to note how the men and women handle the same subject. The debate will begin at eight fifteen, in order not to conflict with fraternity and sorority meetings. President Moody will preside.

The members of the two teams are as follows: Affirmative, Eleanor Jocelyn, Harriet Freeborn and Sylvia Westin; Negative, Gretchen Taylor, Lara Wheaton and Rhoda Smith; Dorothy Pollard will give the Affirmative rebuttal speech. The debate will be modeled on the timing system used in the 'Varsity debates, each person speaking probably twelve minutes. There will be no memorized speeches, the extemporaneous method being used.

AS WE SEE IT

"Newspapers must take sides. There can be no such thing as a neutral newspaper. Every other man in the community may conceal his opinion and even his action behind the screen of the voting booth, but the editor must come out and take a side," once wrote a noted journalist.

That briefly is the situation which we face this week. During the past week we have received several communications and also requests for editorial comment on the results of the Undergraduate Association elections last Tuesday night. First we will present our opinions and then turn these columns over to the others who have expressed themselves.

In general we feel quite satisfied with the results of last week's elections and feel that they were entirely justified. We were aware of the exisiting conditions previous to the elections and although we did not vote Tuesday night we were wholly in sympathy with the manner in which the movement was engineered. In general we are not in favor of political tie-ups but in this case we feel that the circumstances were sufficiently extenuating to warrant such an arrangement.

Those who lost last Tuesday night are more or less bitter and inclined to take a pessimistic attitude towards the coming year. We consider this nothing more or less than "sour grapes". If they had won, everything would be rosy and the success of the coming year would be assured. Those who won, we feel, are just a bit too cocky in their newly acquired success and tend to imitate a little child as they go about proclaiming "We beat! We beat!"

What happened last Tuesday could not but be expected and it hardly came as a surprise to anyone. For some time it has been evident that there would be a complete overthrow of the powers that have been and a shifting of authority in undergraduate affairs from one group to an organization representing a number of groups. It has seemed to us that there has been too much narrow domination exerted in this respect during the past year. When that occurs there is bound to be a reaction and nothing is more reactionary and radical than a college body when the circumstances are right and their indignation is aroused.

The most common and universal charge made by those, whose candidates lost in the elections, is that "the best men were not elected". The Camups genuinely believes that insofar as the important offices are concerned the best men were elected and in addition these men represent a widely distributed group of organizations, which is always an advisable state of affairs. However we admit that perhaps one or two of the men may not be the best men for the position—but when in the past four years have the best men always been elected? Not that we feel that the past should be a criterion of the present but rather to show that it is almost impossible to always get all the best fitted men elected to office. That will not occur until certain fraternities cease their present tactics.

We have looked at both sides of the question and we are in no way alarmed or disturbed. We see no reason why the undergraduate body cannot be governed as well, if not better, by those who are elected as by those who lost, even though the latter are very skeptical.

To the new officers we extend our congratulations, but we shall be equally prone to criticise you if you fail in your obligations. Take into consideration the numerous responsibilities that are yours and make the most of them, for there is much that you can do and must do.

To the minority our advice is not to be asinine about the whole affair. Admit you were beaten and beaten decisively. Furthermore take into consideration that there must have been real reason for it. That will explain a great deal.

R. L. RICE, RETIRING PRESIDENT COMMENTS

To the Editor of the Campus

Dear Sir:

If you are looking for situations that need correction, you need look no further than at the results of the Undergraduate Association election of last evening.

Laying aside all consideration of who was, or who was not elected, I have never, in my four years here, seen a dirtier tie-up, with the plain purpose, not of getting a man for a position, but of getting a position for a house. In my opinion, a cursory examination of the vote showed that four fraternities traded votes, namely, Beta Kappa, Chi Psi, Sigma Phi Epsilon and Delta Upsilon. To my knowledge a fifth house was approached but the advances were rejected. The fraternities engaged in the dirty politics should be thoroughly ashamed of themselves. Such actions create hard feelings and mistrust, and seem to indicate that the student body is incapable of conducting its elections on an honorable basis.

Are Middlebury men so much a part of a fraternity machine that its interests are placed above those of the college?

The men elected through this tie-up are little to be congratulated. They can hardly attribute their election to popular choice or even any consideration of ability. They were small cogs in a wheel. Their due is merely a wish of "good luck."

I trust that you will bend every energy and all the power of your paper toward the prevention of a repetition of last night's exhibition of fraternity politics at their worst.

Very truly yours,
R. Laurence Rice, Jr.

CONNELLY SIZES UP THE SITUATION

To the Editor of the Campus:

I have been rather amused of late by the countless discussions of the ethics of the recent undergraduate elections. There has been much muttering about fraternity politics and some go so far as to hint at a well oiled political machine which combined the votes of several fraternities to place in office what well might be termed "The Progressive Ticket."

Granting for the sake of rational discussion, that the current rumors are true—i. e. that the two groups of combined fraternities waged a rather one-sided political battle in McCullough Gymnasium last Tuesday evening (with the Marquis of Queensbury Rules thrown in the ash heap) why the sudden flash of moral indignation? As "Chick" Rice, Al Knowles, or any other prominent seniors could easily tell you, the above mentioned indignation is rather a new wrinkle in Middlebury politics. In the past the local Ward Boss has been the popular hero—and to the victors went the spoils.

Please do not misunderstand. I neither believe in fraternity politics nor in any other method of defeating the purpose of undergraduate elections, this purpose bein- the placing in office of the most popular, able men in college who receive this honorable recognition of their services to their Alma Mater. I believe wholeheartedly that politics should be quickly thrown out. But—nothing other than unanimous support to such an edifying and ethical program can ever accomplish this effect.

So far as the present state of things go, it seems to me, makes little difference. After all the fact that four fraternities are reputed to have combined on one side against two on the other does not make the deal more unethical. In my mind there is no distinction—neither are justified morally. However the former claim to have been forced to it for self preservation by previous antagonistic deals of the latter. They also claim that the same group placed mediocre men in office.

In closing I cannot help but contrast the past with the present once more. When the present successful machine was suffering at the hands of the other faction, which was then in power, they at least kept their mouths closed and preserved the dignity of gentlemen. Now—well some people simply cannot take a defeat like men.

Very truly yours,
John E. Connelly, Jr.

CAPT. NOVOTNY RIDICULES RESULTS

To the Editor of the Campus:

Just a few words in regard to the farce that has been perpetrated upon the Undergraduate Association by a certain group of fraternities and a certain social organization. I am referring to the Undergraduate elections that were held tonight. I do not belive that there is any need of diagnosing the results. Everybody in college knows of it by this time. A perusal of the votes and the different members chosen for office indicates just what was in "the wind."

'Tis a pity. A downright shame that these fraternities did not include in their plans, the office of "Kampus Kop." I am sure that there would not have been much opposition in this respect. As things stand now they have just about everything. More power to them. I've wondered just how it is that certain members of this college could forecast the results of the balloting for Athletic Council members before the ballots were counted. Shortly after the election was held one of the students "in the know" told me of five men who would be elected for this office. Guess his predictions are coming along in the right way. Anybody that can forecast as acurately as that should go to the Weather Bureau and get a real job. His labor would be well repaid.

It is also a pity that a certain fraternity that frowns on illegal rushing should become mired in the awful mess that came out tonight. It seems to me that a group of upright, moral and scholarly men would not do such things. The funny part of the matter is, as I diagnose it, that they received the worst of the "tieup." Guess, maybe, they ought to take a few lessons in this course from some other group.

The surprising thing about the whole affair is the way that the men take the whole affair. The members of the different groups just smile and look "wise." They sure did put something over on the Undergraduate Association and if they feel proud of it, I really can't say that I admire their pride and self respect. The outward calm, indifferent attitude that they assume does credit to Jesse James. I wonder what their mental reactions are. The more I think of the whole matter, the more I think of that old adage, "Ignorance is bliss."

Just a few words to some of the men who have received the high and mighty honors. I sure do wish you all the luck in the world, and I hope that the newly bestowed laurels will rest lightly on your noble brows. The honors are shallow and not worth the while. I feel sorry for the men who have unwillingly become "Buffers" just for the sake of their good old fraternity.

Just a few more words to you Mr. Editor. You have been harping on fraternity matters in your editorial columns. One plank of your platform is based on cleaner fraternity politics. Now is the time for you to get into your editorial chair and get after this mess. The clique has given you the opening that you have long desired. You can fulfill one of your promises to the "Dear readers." The glory is all yours.

This communication is written with the idea that is paramount in your mind. I sure would like to see the students begin to think about the dirty rotten politics that have been going on in Middlebury. I am grateful that the election of the managers of the various sports has been taken out of the hands of the Undergraduates. If the fraternities will go so far in Undergraduate elections there is no telling what they will do in other matters. Just wish to say, in closing, that the men that are at the head of this "tie-up" are losing a lot of valuable time. The various headquarters of the political parties need men like you.... and they will pay good money too... They also give their campaign managers a lot of cigars to pass out. That's more than you do in Middlebury.

Very truly yours,
Joseph C. Novotny, '26.

RETIRING CAMPUS EDITOR REMARKS

To the Editor of the Camups:

Never in recent years has the tendency of Middlebury men to place fraternity before college been evidenced more clearly than in the Undergraduate Association elections last Tuesday evening. The election was very clearly a cut and dried affair with a very equitable distribution of positions between the five groups who were in control of it. Each of four fraternities as well as the Neutrals got its reward for its part in the plan.

But what did it cost that these groups might win the very doubtful honor of electing their men to positions: A double price was paid. In the first place it cost the college the services in many cases of the best men available for the positions. The college needs the few good men who are here, in positions where they can render service. But she cannot have them during the coming year because it was more important to these four fraternities that their "honor" should be upheld.

In the second place it cost the honesty and good judgment of the great majority of the men who voted for the "coalition" ticket. Many of them realized that they were not voting for the best men nor for the men that they would like to, had they their own choice in the matter. But again it was necessary to uphold the "honor" of the fraternity and honesty and good judgment was cast aside. It is a pretty high price to pay.

When will Middlebury men come to life sufficiently to place fraternity "honor" as of secondary importance in comparison to the good of the college and their own personal integrity?

CLARK, EX-ED. COMMENTS

To the Editor of the Campuss

If you wish to inaugurate a new department of the Campus, I should suggest a column entitled: "Collegiate Fairy Tales". Allow me to submit the first installment in this week's issue. You may tell your readers that while the characters are fictitious, they are nevertheless drawn from real life.

"Once upon a time, as all good stories run, there lived a little boy who was very, very strong. He was so strong that all the other little boys had to have a great deal of respect for him. It was best not to cross him if he had set his heart on a thing. He loved to always be the leader in everything he entered into. If he couldn't be the leader he used his little fists as hard as ever he could. And to make a long story short he usually was the leader. He loved to boss things and especially the other children in the neighborhood. But one day the other little children got mad and decided that it was someone else's turn to be leader. And this strong little boy never dreamed that anybody would ever take his place. He had one ally on whom he could depend, but he wouldn't admit that he had any backing. He liked to give the impression that it was simply his personality that made him popular. Then came the fatal day. The other children chose someone else to be their leader. And, my, how very, very angry this strong little boy was! And what a row he kicked up! He just threw himself on his face and kicked his heels as hard as ever he could! But it didn't do any good. Nobody sympathized with him at all!

MIDD NETMEN WIN ONE AND LOSE ONE

Defeat Confident Vermont Team, 5-1, But Lose To Tufts

Middlebury's tennis team had a busy week-end when, Thursday, it defeated Vermont 5 to 1 on the Hepburn courts, and Friday lost to Tufts by a similar score. Both matches were hard fought throughout; Vermont came down with confident expectations of victory, while Tufts' strength was well known.

All opinions favored Vermont when her netmen came onto the Hepburn courts last Thursday, but with Wolfskehl's masterly handling of Guild in the first match, 6-0, 6-2, Middlebury immediately took heart and began the smashing attack which gave her the 5 to 1 victory over the University.

Wolfskehl had no difficulty with Guild; the first set ended in love, and though Guild recovered somewhat as play continued, Midd's veteran was able to hold him harmless. Captain "Eddy" Hickcox pounced on Nye and in two matches decisively beat him, 6-2, 6-1, whereupon Seymour emulated him with a 6-4, 6-1 defeat of Shaw. Hindes had some trouble with Baldwin; the Vermonter took the first set 6-8, after a stubborn battle, but Hindes settled down to hard play and won the next two 6-3, 6-2.

Vermont was defeated then, as far as the final results were concerned. Nevertheless, Hickcox's teammates took a doubles to make certain of victory, Eddy himself leading the assault. With Seymour as mate, he beat Baldwin and Shaw 6-3, 6-4. Guild and Nye of Vermont won their doubles only with great difficulty. Wolfskehl and Twichell won the first set 6-4, dropped the next 3-6, and contested the last bitterly only to lose, 10-8.

Summary:

Singles: Wolfskehl M, defeated Guild V, 6-0, 6-2. Umpire Sampson. Hickcox M, won from Nye V, 6-2, 6-1. Umpire Hade. Seymour M, defeated Shaw V, 6-4, 6-1. Umpire, Henderson. Hindes M, defeated Baldwin V, 6-8, 6-3, 6-2. Umpire Maynard.

Doubles: Hickcox and Seymour M. beat Baldwin and Shaw V, 6-2, 6-4. Umpire Maynard. Wolfskehl and Twichell M, lost to Guild and Nye V, 6-4, 3-6, 10-8. Umpire, Henderson.

Seymour was the only Middlebury man who was undaunted by his Tufts opponent. He bested Stevens 6-2, 6-2, in the fourth singles, after Wolfskehl, Captain Hickcox, and Hindes in turn had gone down to defeat. With Tufts holding three singles scores, there was still chance for Middlebury to tie the final results. But Banks and Nickels of Tufts succeeded in beating Wolfskehl and Twichell in two sets, while Dawson and Schuller, though forced to concede the first set, took the deciding sets from Hickcox and Seymour.

Summary:

Singles—Dawson T, defeated Wolfskehl M, 7-5, 6-3.

Singles—Wolfskehl M, lost to Dawson T, 5-7, 2-6. Hickcox M, lot to Banks T, 6-4, 4-6, 3-6. Hindes M, lost to Nickels T, 7-5, 6-8, 3-6. Seymour M, won from Stevens T, 6-2, 6-2.

Doubles—Wolfskehl and Twichell M, lost to Banks and Nickels T, 4-6, 1-6. Hickcox and Seymour M, lost to Dawson and Schuller T, 2-6, 6-2, 3-6.

Yesterday morning Middlebury's tennis team began a long auto trek into southern territory on a three-day journey to meet Amherst today, Wesleyan tomorrow and Springfield Friday. Amherst is a newcomer on the Blue and White net schedule this year, but the other two are old opponents.

Captain Hickcox, on his departure, was optimistic over the prospects of victory in all three games. "We've got the best chance we've had in years," he said. With him went Hindes, Seymour, Twichell and Wolfskehl, veterans of many close matches.

'90—Rev. Junius E. Mead, pastor of the Methodist Church at Saratoga Springs, N. Y., has been granted a year's leave of absence by the Troy Conference.

Parker Prize Contest To Take the Form of a Debate

Six men of the class of 1929 will compete in the Parker Prize Debate in Mead Chapel Friday evening at eight o'clock. This debate, which is on the question, "Resolved: That the Federal Government should be given the power to regulate the employment of all persons under eighteen years of age," will take the place of the annual Parker Prize speaking contest.

The men have been chosen from a large group of freshmen which has been working all the present semester under the direction of Dana S. Hawthorne, '26. The customary prizes of $50, $35, $25, and $20 will be awarded to the best speakers, regardless as to whether they are on the winning or losing team. An interesting musical program will also be presented.

TRACK TEAM DROPS CLOSE UNION MEET

"Gil" Smith Breaks College Record By Doing 100 Yards in 10 Seconds

In the closest track meet held at Alexander Field in the past two years, Union defeated Middlebury 73.9 to 52.1 at Schenectady Saturday. "Gil" Smith '29, running against Tiedeman, middle Atlantic states champion in the 100 yard dash, broke the local college record when he took first place in 10 seconds flat.

Until the last events the final results were in doubt. Middlebury proved a surprise to the York state cinder men both on the track and in the field though Union managed to take most of the former events. "Hank" Potter, with his winning the shot put and high jump and taking third in the discus throw, was high personal scorer of the day.

Smith's speed in particular was somewhat of a jolt to Union. Tiedeman was thought to have firsts in both the hundred and the 220 sealed up; he did take the latter dash from "Gil", flying over the course in 22.2.

In the mile and two mile runs and in the 440 Union took all places. Middlebury's strength in the field events, however, balanced these points and proved a serious threat to the victors until the results of the broad jump and discus throw, the last two events, were known.

Summary:

100 yard dash—1 Smith M; 2 Tiedeman U; 3 Adams M. Time 10 sec.

220 yard dash—1 Tiedeman U; 2 Smith M; 3 Adams M. Time 22.2 sec.

Vespers Speaker Urges Acceptance Of Christ In Everyday Life

Dr. James L. Barton, a graduate of Middlebury College addressed the student body at Vespers Sunday evening. He said that immediately preceeding the Ascension, Christ told his disciples, "All power is given unto me in Heaven and in Earth. Go and preach this gospel, and I shall be with you always."

People find fault with the church, its teachings, and question their worth, but they never find any fault with Jesus Christ, His life, or His teachings.

"Cannot we waive aside all questions about the church and accept Christ—the man, and hold up before ourselves His life as an example?"

NINE TO MEET FOUR LEADING N. E. TEAMS

Coach Klevenow Is Optimistic About Outcome of Last Major Trip

The Middlebury baseball team left yesterday morning on their last major trip of the season and will meet four of the leading New England College teams during the week. Yesterday the Blue and White played Dartmouth at Hanover and today are continuing on to Boston where they will meet Boston College in the annual game tomorrow afternoon. Friday Coach Klevenow's men will meet Providence College and will wind up this trip at Durham, N. H., Saturday, when they meet the reputedly strong team of the University of New Hampshire.

Coach Klevenow expressed himself as highly optimistic just before the team departed as he felt that the showing made by the squad in the games against Tufts and St. Michael's puts them in a position to make a very satisfactory showing against the strong teams they will clash with this week. Fifteen men are making the trip, including four pitchers, Bossert, Simmons, Hingston and Lankes and each one of them will have an opportunity to pitch in the games this week. The fact that Williams, one of the pitching mainstays and Conley, regular catcher, have been suspended from the squad for an indefinite period will not greatly weaken the team, in the Coach's opinion. Willis put up a fine game behind the plate Saturday as Hingston pitched his no hit contest against St. Mike's.

Middlebury should meet all of the teams this week on a fairly even basis as Providence had previously beaten St. Mike's by only a 12-11 score while Middlebury made a much superior showing and in turn Providence beat Dartmouth 2-1. New Hampshire beat Tufts 4-3 in an overtime game so that Boston College appears to be the only team that has more than a slight edge on Middlebury.

Sig Eps Bunch Hits in Win From Beta Kappa

By bunching hits in two innings Sigma Phi Epsilon won an easy 14-4 game from Beta Kappa yesterday on Porter Field. Both McLaughlin of the winners and Totten of the losers were knocked out of the box early in the game. Keene who relieved McLaughlin yielded no hits during the rest of the game, and himself laced out a homer to deep left. Stearns was touched for six hits in the sixth, and five runs crossed the plate. The game today between the Sig Eps and Alpha Sigs will decide the National league championship.

BECK POINTS OUT LACK OF LEADERS

Too Many People Are Robbing Their Own Souls In Just Getting By

Cameron Beck of the New York Stock Exchange gave at Mead Memorial Chapel Thursday morning one of the finest Vocational Lectures of the year. His subject was "The Need for Leadership". Mr. Beck is Personnel Director of the Exchange, and as he stated, comes from the cross roads of financial America. His contact with thousands of people applying for all types of positions gives him a varied knowledge of humanity.

In brief his talk was as follows: "No two callings should mean so much to the college student as the teaching profession and the ministry. One of the greatest present day problems is the finding of leaders. America is facing a shortage of 130,000 trained executives for the year 1930. Few realize the opportunities in leadership. Too many look only at the financial side of a position. One individual in 900 applying for work at the Exchange asks for the opportunities for service rather than the money and the hours of work.

"The great ideal in life should be service. And one must be educated to serve best. Seventy-one per cent of those under the age of twenty employed by the Stock Exchange are enrolled in educational institutions. Too many folks educated and uneducated are robbing their own souls trying to just get by. During our college career we are writing our own letters of recommendation for the position we will want when we leave. We must be specific in considering that which we are heading toward. 'Anything' in this age and generation is equivalent to 'nothing.'

"The successful men of today are what they are because they came up through the school of hard knocks. The person having an easy time in college is holding a dangerous position."

In closing Mr. Beck outlined the four fundamental attributes toward success: a plan for life, a purpose in life, need for perseverence, and a desire for righteousness.

"Don't aspire to leadership," he concluded, "unless you can pay the price. Leadership only summons to a road of service."

Women Picked For All-Midd Basketball Team

The All-Midd girls' basketball team was recently chosen. The players are:

Ada Winchester '26, r f.
Onnolee Ohart '27, c f.
Rose Marchiano '29, l f.
Marjorie Sibley '29, r g.
Jean Theve '27, c g.
Lucy MacDonald '26, l g.

Each of these girls will receive a Middlebury letter, and ten points towards the required total of fifty to win a sweater. Miss Winchester has been prominent on the floor throughout her four years of college. She is president of the Women's Athletic Association, and a member of Sigma Kappa. Miss Ohart, captain of the Junior team, has played a fast game as right forward. She is a member of Pi Beta Phi. Rose Marchiano, captain of the freshman team has made an excellent record this fall, and held the high point honors in scoring. Miss Marchiano is affiliated with Alpha Xi Delta. Miss Sibley, also a freshman, has played by far the most outstanding game among the women, as guard. She is a member of Phi Mu. Miss MacDonald, a member of Delta Delta Delta, has been an ardent participant in basketball during her college career.

'25—W. Edwin "Shorty" Long, who is now Physical Director at Thompson, N. Y., has accepted the position of Director of Physical Education at Elmira Heights High School, Elmira Heights, N. Y.

keeping with it. The lighting was most effective. It all reflects great credit upon Mr. Crane and Miss Walker and all who had anything to do with the back-stage work.

The whole presentation has set a high ideal for other Junior classes to aspire to, and Mr. Purdy has set a high standard in directing.

Why, you'd think that this was the first time that such a thing had happened in the world. He didn't stop to consider that somebody else had been disappointed when he first became leader, although they never said anything about it. And how the other little boys all shouted with glee to see him so very, very cross! Then nursie came along and told him that he musn't ever do things to others that he wouldn't like to have them do to him! And now, it's time to go to bed, boys and girls, but you want to remember what happened to that wicked little boy and see that you never have it happen to you!"

It seems to me that the cause for these columns of communications is nothing more nor less than a pure case of "sour grapes"! I suppose that in all my four years here there has never been any fraternity politics in Middlebury? Not very much! What has been the result? I refer you to the above allegory. I would call the attention of your readers to the fact that as long as you have a society there will be some sort of politics. In the outside world we have "party politics". Do away with fraternities if you will, but you cannot eliminate the tendency of groups to be formed from which will come your candidates for office. Is it not natural that each should think its candidate the best man for the place? They wouldn't put him up if they didn't! As for non-fraternity men kicking at the system of politics so prevalent upon college campuses, have they ever considered that they too might organize to back a candidate if they found some one in their midst whom they deemed worthy of the office?.

It seems to me that the whole matter has been given undue publicity and has been painted blacker than it really is. I think that the best thing that can be done is to forget it!

Respectfully yours,
J. AUDREY CLARK, '26.

COMMUNICATION

Alumnus Heartily Approves Editorial Policy of New Campus Board

To the Editor of The Campus:

I received your latest edition of the CAMPUS and note with interest the policies for the year. Each one seems to be very good. You may consider that you have had a very fine year if you get even thirty per cent of your recommendations adopted.

I note that you are issuing for Junior Week a blue booklet. I would suggest that as an advertising feature for the college that you send this booklet out to the Librarians of as many of the high schools in New England as you possibly can, particularly those high schools from which you have pupils.

I trust that you will have a successful year.

Very truly yours,
J. M. RICKER,
Midd. '06.

Nine Loses Two But Takes No Hit St. Mike's Game

Guild, Thompson, Fogg, Novotny. Sacrifice hit, Thompson. Double play, Collins to Kelley. Left on base, Vermont 6, Middlebury 6. Total bases off hits, Vermont 22, Middlebury 10. Base on balls, by Roark 1, by Fogg 1, by Simmons 2, by Lankes 1. Struck out, by Roark 7, by Fogg 6, by Simmons 2, by Hingston 2. Hit by pitcher, Novotny and March by Roark. Passed balls, Conley, Osborne. Umpire, Glass of Rutland.

Refusing to belive they were facing their strongest opponents thus far this season, Middlebury's nine played exceptionally good ball in the 4 to 2 Tufts victory Friday. Bossert, a freshman, held the mound the entire nine innings for Midd in what proved to be a stubborn pitcher's duel.

Though the visitors pushed three singles into the books in the first four innings, they were unable to circle the bases in the first four innings, they were unable to circle the bases until the sixth, and before that time Captain Novotny's men had had their fun on the sacks. It was in the last of the fifth that fireworks exploded when Bossert's single to right scored March, to be followed directly afterward by another single from Hasseltine's bat, bringing Conley home.

These runs loomed big to Middlebury. Tufts had been in a deadlock up until this time, but with the seventh, Strathdee hit the only extra-base clout of the day, a double to left, and started the enemy's scoring. A weird infield hit by Robinson rolled through Bossert and Sorenson, and two were on bases. Then Phillips singled, and Fulton hit a bounding single to right. March lost the ball, three runs came in, and Fulton took third. March made up for his miscue directly afterward, however, when he pulled down Kennedy's high fly and by a perfect throw caught Fulton at the plate.

No more runs were brought in by either team. A double play in the eighth ruined a Tufts threat, and Midd could not find the fast ball which Schuman, replacing Robinson, tossed down the mound.

BRUSH NEW PRES. CHRISTIAN ASS'N.

Bicknell, Lavery, Lee Chosen At Meeting For Other Positions

Arthur T. Brush of the class of '29 was unanimously elected president of the Middlebury Christian Association for the coming year at a meeting held last week. Harris To Write Article On Prohibition for Digest

The Effect of Prohibition on the Student Body of Middlebury" will be the subject of a brief article written by Lloyd C. Harris, editor of the CAMPUS, that will appear in an early issue of the Literary Digest.

This popular weekly magazine is to run a survey of existing conditions in several of the leading colleges of the country. Due to the number of conflicting statements that have appeared in the newspapers of late relative to drinking among college men and the fact that it was charged before the Senate Committee investigating it, that prohibition is debauching the youth of the country, the Literary Digest is seeking to truthfully present the true state of affairs that is prevalent in the undergraduate bodies.

Providence succeeded in beating the Winooski college by only one run, 12 to 11, and Providence later subdued Dartmouth, 2 to 1. Clarkson, who trounced Midd so decisively two weeks ago, did it after receiving a good drubbing from St. Michael's. Hingston's ability to hold his opponents hitless was exceptionally noteworthy.

Singles by E. Hasseltine and Anderson, a sacrifice by Sorenson, and a double by Novotny accounted for Middlebury's run in the opening inning. With the second round, two more runs were taken, then scoring ceased until the eighth. Meanwhile, in the third, St. Michael's took its one tally, as a result of a walk and two infield errors.

A run in the eighth and another in the closing round completed Middlebury's first victorious game this season.

Professors And Students Discuss Sports Hysteria

The American Association of University Professors in their April Bulletin accuse excessive attention to intercollegiate football as distorting values which remain with college men through life, as causing neglect of those intellectual interests which furnish "the fundamental purpose of a college education."

This is not merely teachers' talk about bad boys whose ways annoy them. The boys themselves are talking in the same tone about the same problem. When the Harvard Crimson says too much emphasis is given to college football, scoffers might retort, "There is a reason." But there was last December a meeting of college editors and Chairmen of campus organizations of Harvard, Princeton, Bowdoin, Williams, Dartmouth, and Wesleyan which pointed out the evils of the situation and made shrewd suggestions for remedial rules. When announcement was made that Yale alone took $626,194 in football receipts in the single year 1923, undergraduates criticism was quite as free as professional comment.

Professor Phelps of Yale tells in the current Scribner's how, having made a chaffing reference to the low estate of learning in college, he was rebuked by a student who said that the earnest student is honored and respected in spite of all the current jokes. There is, in fact, something like a Nation-wide revolt among thinking students against the evils of which the professors complain. It is the graduates now who are mainly responsible for the hysteria over sports, and the evils that follow in its train. Upon the campus itself there is a decided reaction toward sanity and practical reforms.—New York World.

Prohibition Polls Taken In Various Other Colleges

College students of the East favor Modification while undergraduates of the middle and west are for maintaining the eighteenth amendment intact. This generalization holds true in the returns so far reported by the National Student Federation referendum. Cornell and Yale are strongly for modification, Connecticut Wesleyan went "dry" by a slim majority and now Williams reports 260 for modification, 99 against. Heidleberg College favored Prohibition by a vote of 219 to 81.

Indications of a huge vote to be piled up for Prohibition are in evidence. At Kansas Wesleyan college the student body voted to send a telegram to the senate stating that the college was for Prohibition. The vote was taken after a chapel lecture by the state superintendent of the anti-saloon league.

In Georgia a Methodist pastor told an assembly of Emory University students, of a monstrous parade to be held in Atlanta to "biff John Barleycorn." He explained that it will be youth's protest against the propaganda the wets are creating about the young people of America becoming boozers and "going to the devil."

Willard Hay, newly-elected president of the Liberal Arts Council, is heading the campaign at Emory. He is confident that Emory will do her part in showing the anarchists of America this false presumption on their part. It is probable that the Emory band will also lend its stirring strains to the occasion.

Pictures of this magnificent parade will be filmed for the movies and for the rotogravure sections of newspapers all over the country. It will be an epoch-making incident in the life of Atlanta's youth and in the enforcement of the prohibition movement. It will show that students and young people are in favor of "enforcement of the law instead of weakening it." And it is only fitting that Emory should head the procession.—New Student Service.

The freshman woman's tennis championship went to Rose Marchiano Saturday in the finals match when she defeated Frances Spear 6-0, 6-2.

SIG EPS GET FIRST PRIZE FOR STUNT

Humorous Take-Off of Daily Chapel Cleverest of Interfraternity Stunts

Sigma Phi Epsilon won the unanimous decision of the judges for first place in the annual interfraternity stunts held Friday morning at the Opera House by the presentation of a humorous takeoff of daily chapel. The prize was a silver loving cup presented by the Junior Week Committee to the fraternity which in the estimation of the judges showed the most originality and ability in presentation. The act was complete in every respect from the usual clamor for mail to the untimely discord by the "organist"; and the biggest hit was probably made when "Prexy" started his long harangue to the student body, and the umbrella was raised in the front seat. The judges were President Paul D. Moody, Dean Burt A. Hasseltine, and Professor Frank W. Cady.

Avalanche of Hits Gives Dekes Win From K.D.R.

The Dekes unslung their bats and won from Kappa Delta Rho yesterday on Porter Field, 24-5. An avalanche of hits in the first inning, including three homers, netted twelve runs for the winners. Stewart of K. D. R. was relieved by Hoyle who was touched hard and often. The stick work of Potter and Bill Rice's mound work were the features of a long drawn out and listless game. The victory practically assures the Dekes of the American league champsionship.

Band Gives Up Seats to Audience

Due to a lack of chairs and a slight misunderstanding on the part of the listeners, the members of the band were obliged to stand during their concert Saturday. The concert was scheduled to be given out of doors, but on account of the rain it was necessary to hold it in the gymnasium. When chairs were brought up for the band to use they were confiscated by the audience, but through the courtesy of the director nothing was said, and the program proceeded with no rest for the weary.

NEWS ASSOCIATION MEETS AT HANOVER

To Discuss Editorial Policies For Papers For Coming Year

Hanover, N. H., May 18.—Accomplishments of the eastern college press in the scholastic year now ending will be reviewed during the seventh annual convention of the Eastern Intercollegiate Newspaper Association, which will be held at Dartmouth College, Hanover, N. H., May 27, 28 and 29.

The undergraduate chiefs of the eastern college publications are to be guests of The Dartmouth. Outstanding editorial policies, notably concerning overemphasis of football, abolition of compulsory chapel and prohibition, are expected to be crystalized; so that a unified policy might be suggested for the college editor's pen in the scholastic year to come.

President Ernest M. Hopkins, of Dartmouth, will speak to the convention concerning the undergraduate voice in educational policy. Other speakers are Prof. Wilbur Urban, President of the American Philosophical Association, on "Undergraduate Values;" Prof. Leon B. Richardson, author of "A Study of the Liberal College," on "Curriculum Reform;" and Lewis Fox, President of the National Student Federation of America, on "Relations Between the Federation and the Collegiate Press."

The officers of the Eastern Intercollegiate Newspaper Association are: President, E. J. Duffy, Editor of The Dartmouth; Vice President, R. A. Eichelberger, Editor of the Pennsylvanian; and Secretary-Treasurer, C. H. Hornburg, Business Manager of The Dartmouth. The member papers of the Association are: the Amherst Student, the Brown Herald, the Colgate Maroon, the Columbia Spectator, the Cornell Sun, The Dartmouth, the Princetonian, the Harvard Crimson, the Boston College Heights, the McGill Daily, the Middlebury Campus, the Penn State Collegian, the Pennsylvanian, the M. Alpha Sigs Take 6-2 Win From Neutrals

The Neutrals dropped their second game of the National league to Alpha Sigma Phi 6-2 Monday on Freshman Field in a rather slow and listless game. A spectacular catch by "Al" Leahy was the only feature of the battle. Begley did the twirling for the winners and Gonsalves for the losers. Alpha Sig plays Sig Ep tomorrow.

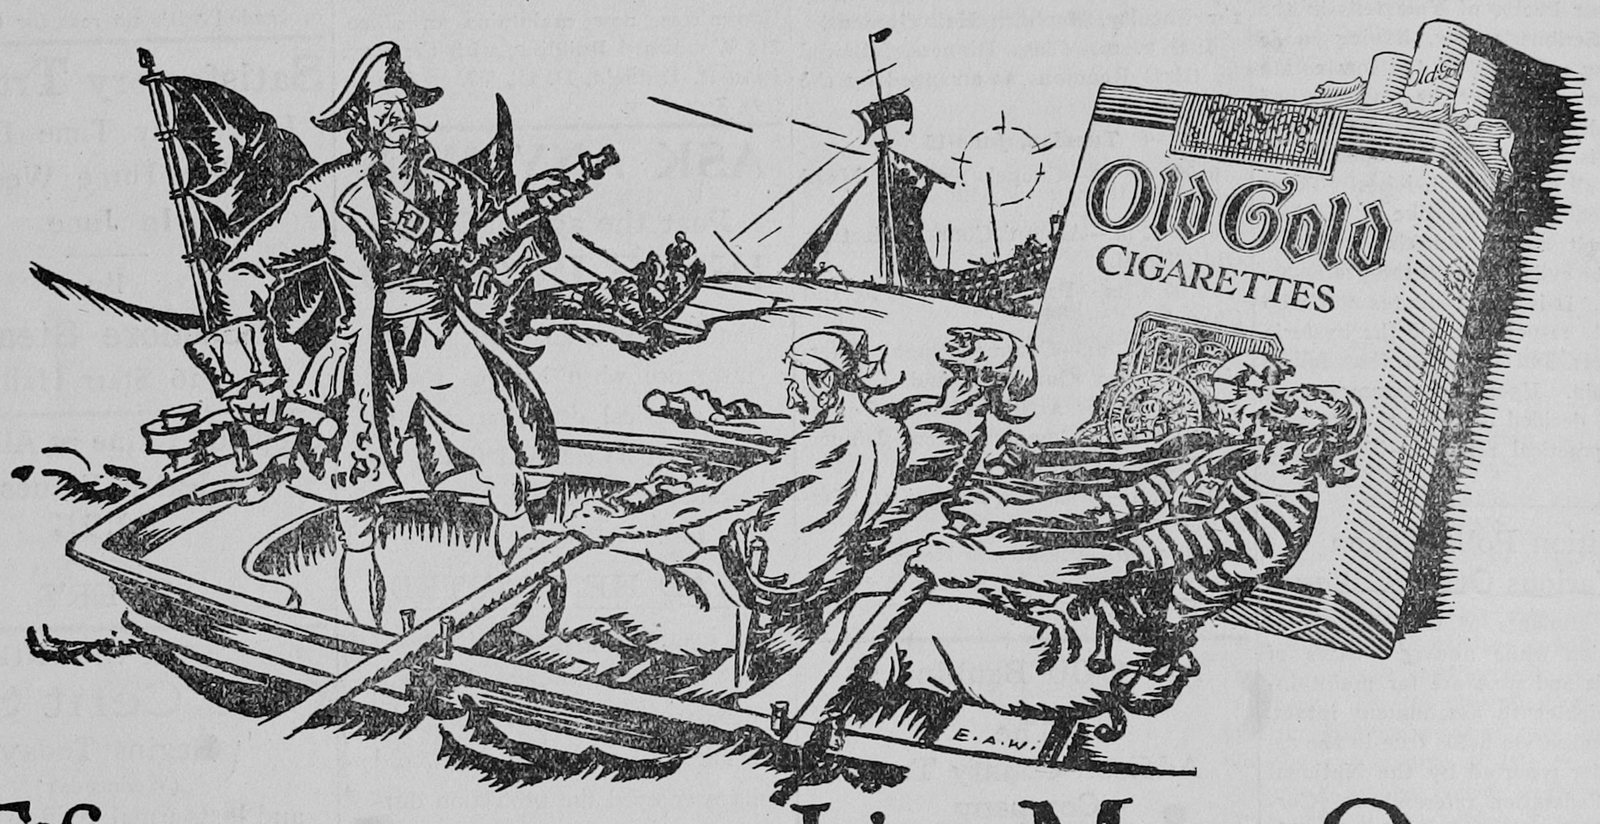
The Dawn of a Better Cigarette



Fifteen men on a Live Man's Quest
Yo-ho- and a better CIGARETTE

HERE'S merry luck, Mates! Just as you were drifting along, aimless-like, in your smoking habits, with nary an adventure to tickle your smoke-taste, in the Seven Seas of Commonplace Tobacco—along comes a rollicking breeze of good news that sends you bounding into a treasure-land of new smoking satisfaction.

A new cigarette—as welcome as a Port of Thrills after a dreary voyage. A relievingly different cigarette—with a new and teasing fragrance that anchors to your favor like a home-sick brig to its native harbor.

It remained for those veteran pilots of superior tobacco enjoyment—The P. Lorillard Company, 166 years at the wheel—to chart out the way to a better 15c cigarette—a smoother, cooler, more winsome cigarette.

Identified for generations with uncommonly fine cigarettes, they lay their course to find a still better cigarette, to retail at an uncommonly small price.

And they found it in OLD GOLD, the treasure of them all—20 white and brown cargos of golden cigarette enjoyment and satisfaction for 15 cents.

OLD GOLD offers three distinct improvements over old cigarette standards. It's cooler—because made from finer and lighter leaf, hand-selected. It's milder—because a new-day method takes out any hidden harshness in the tobacco. It's more fragrant—because it's made from the choicest of all Turkish and domestic tobaccos, chosen for their aromatic perfection and blended by old masters.

Stow your hold with your first treasure chest of OLD GOLDS today, men. Buy one package—that's all we ask. We're more than content to let that trial package make its own bid for your permanent patronage.
